Reflection on the Scriptures

"Jesus disregarded the report that had been brought." —Mark 5:36 "He put them all out." —Mark 5:40

Jesus refused to listen to humanity's interpretation of an event. He put the naysayers out of the room. He disregarded the news that was reported of a girl's death. Jesus saw beyond the externals and looked at the heart of the matter (see 1 Samuel 16:7).

Like Jesus, refuse to allow the world's messengers to force-feed you with what they consider newsworthy. Rather, make the Good News your home (see John 8:31-32). Don't let the bad news of this world reported by the mega-media conglomerates form and shape you. Be formed and transformed by the gospel, the Good News. Then, form the world through your transformed life.

Transform the bad news into the Good News by praying the news. Jesus spent far more time listening to His Father than to the newscasters. We must do the same. Immerse yourself in the Gospels and "believe the Good News" (see Mark 1:14-15)
